Staff Dedicates '73 El C to BA Students and Their Search

Dedication of the Bryan Adams annual has always been to an outstanding teacher. This person would be recognized for his work with the honor of the dedication. But this year traditions have changed.

Staff members of the El Conquistador felt that the yearbook should be dedicated to the students. Providing the youth, energy, and pride of the school, these people deserve the honor. Working for most of the year to bring memories and feelings to life on 400 pages, the staff labored for the entire student body, not just a single teacher or administrator.

We proudly present and dedicate the 1973 annual to the 3500 students of Bryan Adams High School.

August Workers Busily Prepare for New Cougars

"Pick your feet up! Straighten those lines!!!" Cougar marchers ran through the half-time show for the umpteenth time. Up at 6:00, out on the field at 7:30 — this was the daily routine of all 130 band members, but they were not alone. The Belles practiced in the gym, and the cheerleaders were in the courtyard.

All of these fine spirit-promoting groups rushed around busily each morning for two weeks in August readying for the onslaught of school students. The band was practicing feverishly for both San Angelo and Welcome Day, while the Belles and cheerleaders were getting ready to make a big impression on all new students.

Other groups worked toward the opening of school, also. The Student Council prepared the Cougar Book for all B.A. students. This made teachers' jobs easier so that all Cougars could enter school without a snag on Monday, August 21. These endeavors helped to make the 72-73 school year the best ever.

New Students See Exciting Beginnings

August 18 signaled the end of summer as hundreds of expectant new students crowded the doors of Bryan Adams in anticipation of Welcome Day. Once inside the auditorium the newcomers were given a brief summation of the school's tradition and were greeted by Principal D. D. Richardson and president of the student council, Richard Lord. Pep squad president Bonnie MacPhee encouraged all new girls to become Bryan Adams Spirits and support the football team. Wes Foster spoke on behalf of the Key Club. Also, a representative of the R.O.T.C. spoke. Entertainment was provided by "The Most Televised Band in the Land" and the drill team.

Finally, students were dismissed to make the frustrating journey to their homeroom where Cougar Books were issued. Various clubs and organizations stationed representatives in the halls to direct lost students and answer any questions.

School Activities Begin Early for Some

Early to bed, early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy . . . and exhausted. This was the case of a great many students at Bryan Adams. An estimated 40% of all students arrived at school around seven o'clock every morning for one reason or another when the official school day did not begin until 8:25. For some it was just a question of dragging themselves out of bed, and for others it was setting the alarm for an hour earlier.

There were several meetings held before school; for example, the student council held its meetings at 7:45 every Tuesday.

Other organizations such as the band and drill team began their day on the field at 7:00 during football season to practice for the upcoming game. The cheerleaders' average day began with one good round of "Two Bits." All in all, the school was very much alive and ready to go before half of us had ever had breakfast. Other students arrived at school early for a different reason. They began the day with a 00 period.

Diversified Activities Keynote BA

A school day at Bryan Adams covered anything from the study of ancient Roman history to bad attitudes in four-year-old children. Each day the tardy bell rang promptly at 8:25, and another seven hours of work began. Students at Bryan Adams, however, always found ways to make each new day fresh and exciting. Some people enjoyed "rapping" with each other in the lunchroom or on the blacktop, while others took pride in schoolwork or extra-curricular activities. With research assignments constantly due, many found a wealth of material in the library. Still other students managed to squeeze enough time into busy schedules for such courses as Driver Education or Creative Writing. Such was the 1972-1973 school year.

Fall Assemblies Promote Spirit

High-pitched and thrilling pep assemblies were witnessed each week by the student body during the 1972 football season. Cheers and anticipation filled the auditorium as the assemblies progressed throughout the season. Spirit was released in such a fashion that the "roof was raised."

Pep talks given by various members of the football team assured Cougar fans of a victory. Skits predicting this were presented each week by the cheerleaders. Previews of the weeks halftime show were performed by the Belles and Majorettes.

Lunch Periods Provide Relaxation

Lunchtime created exciting experiences for sophomore students on the first day of school. After learning the lunchrooms true location, typical sophomores waited twenty-five minutes in line and had only five minutes to eat.

Juniors display their intelligence by bringing lunch boxes prepared by their mothers. Junior girls sat with friends, and plotted schemes to obtain senior boyfriends.

Seniors presented their "senioritis" and dined at the "Jack in the Box." A friendly policeman soon found out and gave them free, legal vacations for three days.

Yes, students will always remember the excellent atmosphere and appetizing food of the Bryan Adams lunchroom.

After School Involves Students

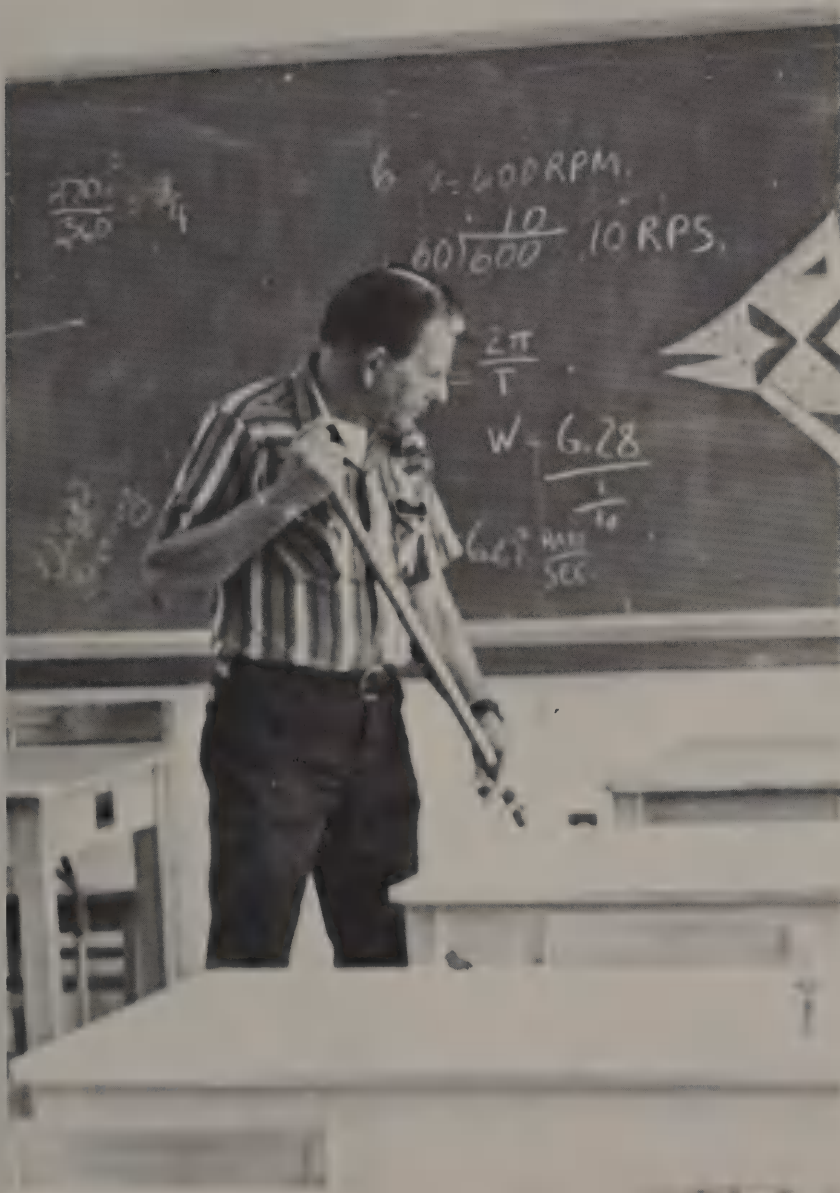

Many students believed that school ended after seventh period, but some students knew that many school activities only began after the dismissal bell.

During football season, members of the Spirits spent afternoons decorating the halls and courtyards to promote spirit for the upcoming game. Members of the football team and other athletic organizations prepared for upcoming duals by participating in strenuous work-outs.

Several clubs held after-school meetings to plan and inform members of upcoming activities and parties. Various organizations held activities such as field trips after school. Members of special interest clubs were allowed to practice and improve their skills or learn more about their favorite subject.

San Angelo Plots Cougar's Future

Anticipation filled Bryan Adams' students and faculty as long lines of buses and cars began the annual journey to San Angelo on Friday, September 8. Students were dismissed from their afternoon classes to make the trip.

After a five hour ride, Cougar fans rolled to San Angelo's Central High Stadium where the clash with the Bobcats began. Soon after the arrival of the buses, cheers led by the cheerleaders echoed through the stadium. At half-time, the Belles, band, and majorettes gave a quality performance.

In spite of the boundless energy of the team and the spirit of the spectators, the offensive power of the Bobcats could not be overcome, and the Cougars were defeated 55-20. Sleepy and exhausted students boarded their buses for the long trip back to Dallas. Arriving at 4:00 a.m. Saturday, fans swarmed across Bryan Adams' lawn on their way home.

NFL Talent Show Features Election

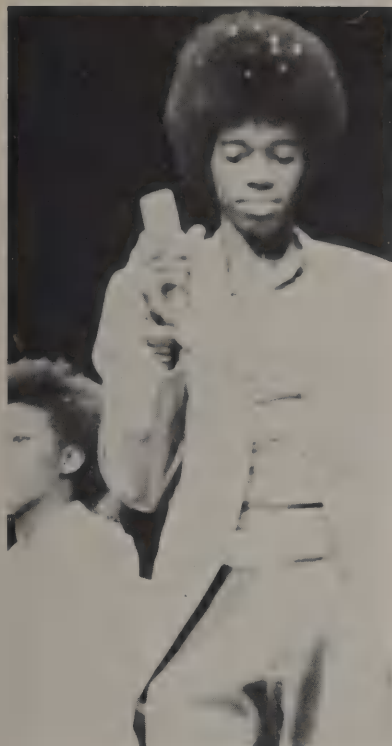

These initials stand for the National Forensic League, a group of students involved in speech. These students spent an infinite amount of their time searching for material to present at speech tournament competitions. In order to pay for these expenses, the people produced an annual NFL Talent Show. Income received from this production paid for their bus rides and entry fees at various tournaments.

Election 1972 was chosen as the theme because of the year's political activities. Rehearsals were held every night for almost a month before the performance. King Richard and the vice-presidential contest satires provided laughs for the audience. Songs, dances, instrumentals, and jokes highlighted the show.

"Buckeye" Dance Ushers in Halloween Spirit

Halloween came early this year as Student Council members prepared to meet the season with dance. On November 28, the music group "Buckeye" performed in the gym for a great crowd of students. Several hundred attended and had a fabulous time for about two hours. The group played music for all tastes, agreeing with the dancers, while Student Council members served refreshments in the hall for the ones who wanted to eat.

On the Wednesday before the dance, a magical parade wound its way through the building and grounds to advertise the big event. This menagerie of goblins, witches and gypsies was led by ferocious George Danielson in the semblance of a giant ogre.

Homecoming Revives BA Traditions

Variety was the hallmark of the 1972 Homecoming. The week's activities culminated on Friday night with the traditional Samuel game. That morning before the contest, a rousing pep rally readied students for the clash. Spirit prevailed as the Belles, Band and Spirits received spirit sticks for their efforts of the season. These organizations proved their loyalty as the team was cheered to a final 29-6 victory.

True Homecoming spirit reigned at the dance following the game as students past and present mingled and swayed in the gym. Music was provided by the rock group "Citadel." The highlight of the evening appeared to be the crowning of duchess, princess and queen about 12:30. Nominees and their escorts waited nervously as Robyn Kosan, Phyllis Parvin and Patty Juno received titles.

Cothurnus Playhouse Revises Image

In early November plans were announced for a contest to rename Variety Theatre, the annual plays produced by BA's Cothurnus Club.

With a new name of Cothurnus Playhouse, the drama club proceeded with two all new plays. Tryouts for parts in the early December performance of "Big Rock at Candy's Mountain," and "Frankenstein's Monster" were held soon after. Under the direction of Mrs. Clay and Mr. Matlack, the casts worked feverishly to ready themselves for the production of the plays.

Performed before maximum audiences on three consecutive nights, Cothurnus Club's efforts for a new type of theatre proved to be highly acceptable to nearly everyone who attended.

Ensemble Tours Washington

With full support of the people of Texas and aid of Congressman Alan Steelman, the Bryan Adams Marching Ensemble left Love Field on January 18 to appear as the Texas representative in the inaugural parade of Richard M. Nixon in Washington, D. C.

On December 21, when the group discovered that they had been selected for the coveted position, they immediately began one month of serious fund-raising. The original goal of $40,000 was well surpassed by the Cougars.

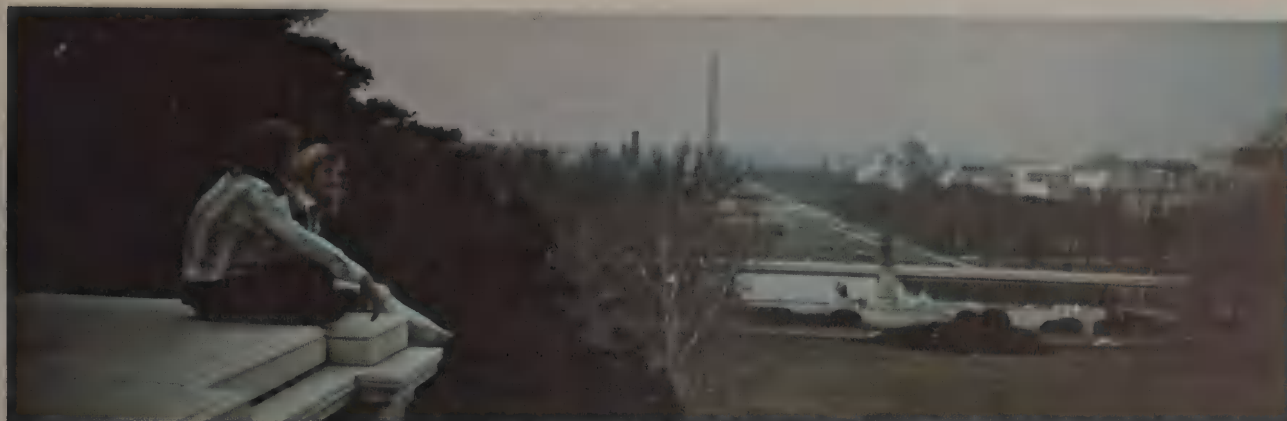

Friday the ensemble enjoyed a full day of sight-seeing in Washington. Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials and the Smithsonian Institution were toured. Saturday, the ensemble, along with a Channel 4 News Team, journeyed to the parade site. As the group passed the Presidential reviewing stands, Mr. Nixon saluted them with the-hook-em-horns sign.

Successful 'Tourney' Requires Dedication

Faces of confusion and bewilderment filled the halls on February 2 and 3 during the 12th Annual Bryan Adams Speech Tournament. Students arrived by bus loads from 50 schools all over Texas.

Long hours of complicated and detailed work went into the preparation for the tournament which is one of the largest in Texas. Contestants competed during afternoon classes while teachers judged. Many Bryan Adams students volunteered their time to serve as timekeepers and as hostesses.

NFL Board Members for 1972-73 were President Barby Kirby, Vice-President Angelos Ramos, Recording Secretaries Toni Moreno and Geoff Graham, Corresponding Secretary Lee Hunt, Tournament Coordinators Teresa LaQuey and Liz Stewart, and Treasurer Richard Cohen. BA Football Has Winning Year

Cougar football 1972, under the guidance of new head coach J. D. Hunt, provided yet another exciting, winning season for Bryan Adams. With only four returning lettermen, the team began slowly by losing their first three nonconference games to San Angelo, Garland, and North Mesquite. Then, led by captains Mark Guy and Bob Debenport, the team was transformed into a formidable opponent capable of scoring at any time. A powerful offense and strong defensive unit combined to form hopes of a district title in the minds of many Cougar fans. However, these hopes were dashed by a loss to our next-door neighbor, Skyline. Recovering from the loss, the team remained victorious throughout the remainder of the season and ended with a 6-1 record for second place in district.

Cougars Lose Non-District Games

Bryan Adams got off to a slow start with a 55-20 loss in San Angelo, but the "Mean Green" played much better than the score indicated. While the Bobcats played their starters throughout the whole game, BA used about thirty different players in the various positions.

Garland won the second game 15-0 despite gallant stands by the mighty Cougar defense. Late in the fourth quarter the Owls' defense won the game with two interceptions deep in Cougar territory which resulted in two touchdowns.

BA rounded up the three non-district games against undefeated teams with a disappointing 14-0 loss to North Mesquite. The Stallions outguessed the Cougar defense with a seventy-six yard scoring pass in the last two minutes of the first half. Before the half ended, North Mesquite recovered a BA fumble on the Cougar seventeen yard line that led to a North Mesquite touchdown.

TJ, Skyline-BA Wins One, Loses One

BA recorded its first win with a well deserved victory over the Thomas Jefferson Patriots. The 14-7 outcome came at a good time as the clash represented the start of district play. The Cougar defense held on many key downs; however, the Patriots touchdown resulted from an 82 yard kickoff return.

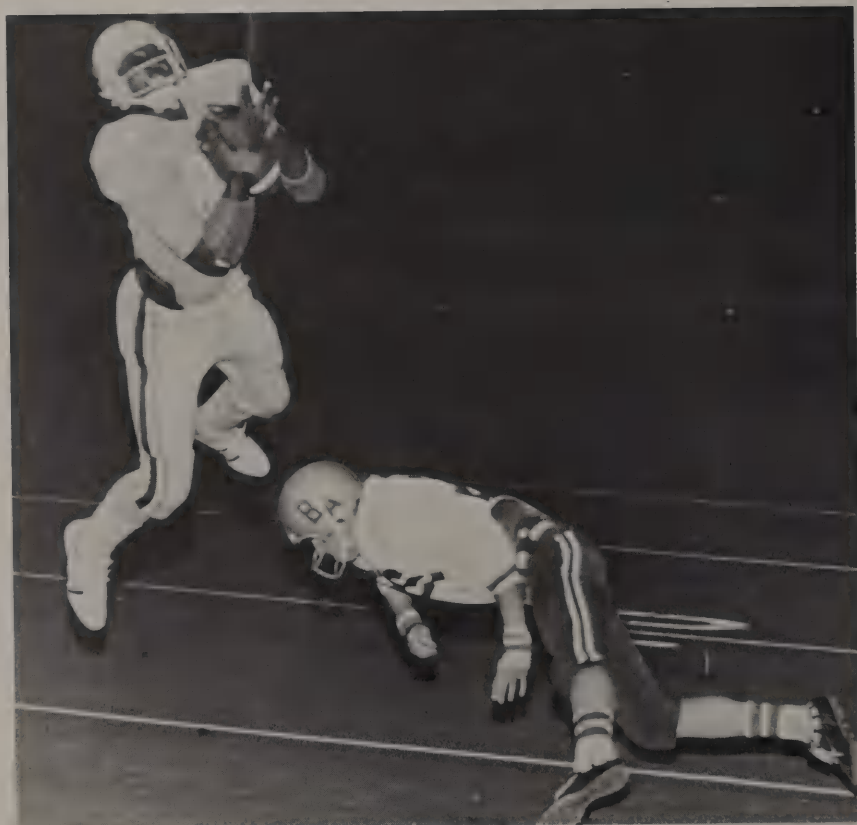

Bryan Adams felt the sting of defeat after a 13 to 6 loss to Skyline in their second district outing. While the Big Green defense halted Skyline several times within a few yards of the goal, two lost fumbles and two interceptions cost BA dearly as the Raiders capitalized on them. The Cougars' only score came when Dan Cowart recovered a fumble on the three yard line and, four plays later, Mark Guy threw to Paul Shearer for the touchdown.

Cougars Win Three in a Row

H. G. Spruce could muster only one touchdown, and overcame their disappointing loss to Skyline with a 21-7 victory with the defense molding into form.

BA caught fire with 8 minutes left to play after 3 scoreless quarters to make 2 touchdowns and clinch a 13-6 victory against Hillcrest. Bruce Hampton broke several tackles and sprinted 20 yards down the sidelines for the first goal and Paul Shearer booted the extra point to pull ahead from a 6 point deficit. Several fumbles later, Dan Cowart recovered a Panther bobble on the 49 and, 9 plays after that, Mark Guy hit Shearer for a 17 yard TD.

BA overcame 6 lost fumbles, 2 of which occurred within the Tiger 5 yard line, and one interception, to squeeze by Lincoln 13-6. After a sluggish first half which left the Cougars behind 3-7, the Mean Green rallied back on a short end around by Mark Guy for its first TD and with 3:38 remaining, Curley Johnson scored from the 2 on a drive resulting from a Tiger fumble.

Triumphant still, after three games, Bryan Adams plunged on to continue their winning season. Students were proud and continued to support their mighty team.

Cougars Conquer White, Samuell

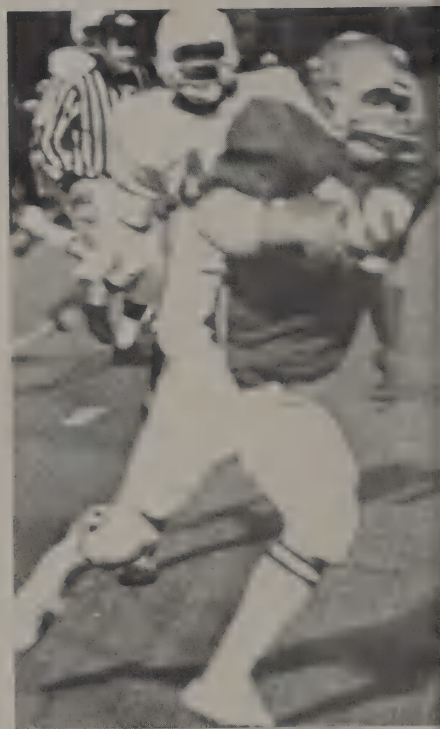

Excitement and happiness could be seen on the faces of many Cougar fans as BA snatched victory from the jaws of defeat at the BA-White game. With four minutes left to play and a score of 15-10, most fans thought the Cougar's fate was sealed.

With a fourth-and-inches facing the Cougars, Mark Guy faked to Curley Johnson and skirted around right end for the necessary six yards and a touchdown with 26 seconds remaining in the game. The final gun sounded with a 17-15 win for the Big Green.

In their season finale, the Bryan Adams Cougars walloped the Spartans of Samuell in the cold and wet of Forrester Field. After a slow first half, in which the Cougars only led by 7-0, they roared into life scoring 3 more goals to put away the 29-6 victory.

BA's JV and B Team Gain Skill in Football Techniques

Most people did not realize the importance of the Bryan Adam's Junior Varsity and B Team. These boys worked hard to achieve their goal of playing on the Cougar Varsity. Without the dedication these teams put into their games and practice, the varsity team would never get boys with as much experience and knowledge of football as our JV and B team are given.

As sophomores, players strived to prove themselves on the B team under the direction of coach Larry Covin. Then, as juniors, they played on the Junior Varsity team under coach Dolph Regelsky. The coaches made several cuts to keep only the best players. With the combined efforts of both teams and coaches, and with hard work, these boys looked forward to great futures in football.

Basketball Claims Winning Year

Bryan Adams' Varsity basketball team played a twenty-three game season with seven games against schools of other districts. Winning five of the preseason games, the varsity moved on to the Dr. Pepper Tournament. The Cougars lost only to Spruce, who won the tournament championship. Throughout district play, the varsity team posted exciting wins and narrow defeats. During the middle of January, the varsity rebounded with surprising wins over district leaders to put them back in the race when other teams thought BA was a cinch. By the end of the season, the roundballers had kept their district record well above the .500 mark.

"B" Team's Experience Anticipates Future

Basketball started slowly for the "B" team this season as several important games were lost. However, as the season progressed, so did the players' ability. Often staying until 5:30 in the afternoons, the basketball players planned, practiced, and polished their strategies. Through this determination and acceptance of hard work, the Cougars displayed physical growth, team efforts, strengthened school spirit with many exciting games. With a tough defense and a balanced offense, the "B" team flaunted coordination and enthusiasm throughout the season. The "B" team promised a growing interest in basketball for years to come.

BA Tankers Sprint To Win

In the watery world of White Rock Pool, the Swim Team, under the watchful eye of Coach Austrum Ziedermanis, developed into a strong group of competitors capable of challenging anyone.

Led by captain Mike Clark and co-captain Jeff Veazey in their morning and afternoon practices totaling 10,000 yards, the "Tankers" gained the stamina and endurance necessary for the sport. The girls team, led by Judy Dilling and Monica Kemp, also worked hard each afternoon, becoming more proficient with every stroke. After a winning district season, the team went on to earn high honors in regional and state competition.

Cougar Tennis Team Swings Through Year

Tennis was one of the few sports at Bryan Adams in which both girls and boys could compete equally. The 1972-73 Tennis Team swung into the season with a lust for victory and a large measure of enthusiasm for the sport. Tennis requires quickness, agility, and coordination, and to achieve these winning qualities the "racketeers" practiced regularly after school. In addition to playing on the courts, they ran daily laps around the football field to build up their endurance.

Led by Coach Wayne Scott, the team skillfully executed forehand smashes, back-hand swings, fierce serves, and good sportsmanship to bring respect and recognition to BA.

Golfers Drive Through Season

BA's golf team eased through another season, polishing up their golf game in preparation for the district and city tournaments near the end of the year. In his first teaching year at BA, coach Ron Ross adequately stepped in and took command of the golf team. Coach Ross instructed the players on how to get the best possible scores through the development of their golfing skills.

Often playing the interscholastic tournament schedule with the "B" team against other high schools, the Cougars still managed to shut out many opponents while compiling a winning record. With the majority of the team comprised of juniors, Bryan Adams is assured of another excellent year.

Cougar Track Team Races For Victory

Cindermen from Bryan Adams displayed true speed and agility as they worked out each afternoon under the skillful direction of Coach Frank Davis. Events included sprints, distance running, hurdles, high jumps, discus, and shot put. These led to great achievements and the reaching of many personal goals.

Participation in competition at several district meets required long hours of practice. The track team placed high in several events. They earned the respect of their opponents, who recognized them as strong adversaries and a constant threat. Led by captains Gene Garrett and Mike Zasmowich, the team really gave their all and represented Bryan Adams in quality exhibitions.

Players Slide Into New Spring Season

When Spring came to Bryan Adams, the thoughts of many boys turned to baseball. Under the direction of Coach Dolph Regelsky and with the help of returning lettermen who formed the team's nucleus, the '73 Cougars had a successful year. Cutting and adjusting occurred until all the players were in their most capable form. Daily afternoon workouts combined with a strong winning spirit created a team that truly demonstrated the skill of baseball. They practiced and perfected batting, catching, pitching and fielding techniques so that other teams always knew they were up against a real ball club.

Last year's team excelled and went to quarterfinals, creating a difficult record to follow, but our '73 Cougars achieved a position for themselves on their own merits.

Organizations

Student Council Sponsors Changes

Several "Firsts" were scored by the Student Council in one of its most active and progressive years. This was the first year for the Student Council "class," held third period each day, which enabled council members to work continually instead of only once a week.

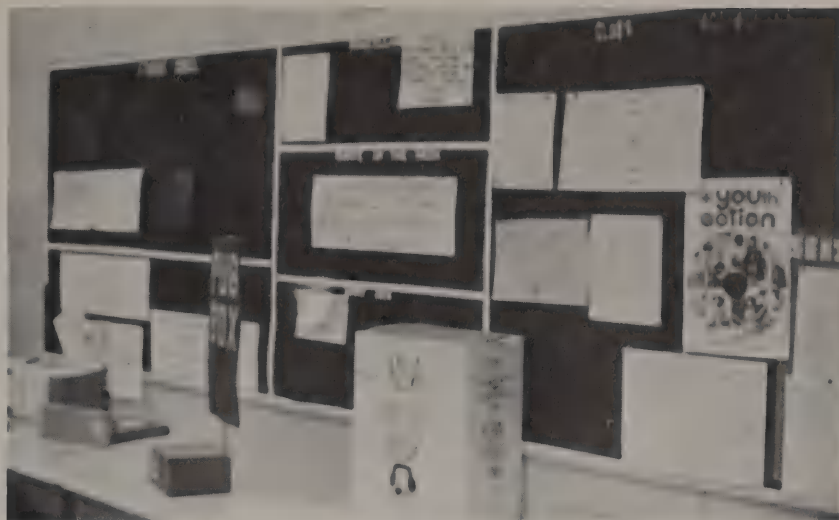

One of the biggest break-throughs this year was the introduction of the parking lot punch-card system. Cards were purchased from the office for $3.75 and lasted for 30 parks. Another new project was the Student Council Gripe Box. Students placed their complaints in the box, and answers were later posted on the bulletin board. The Student Council also helped to initiate the Human Relations Committee which functioned throughout the year. The bookstore continued to serve the student body.

A March of Dimes Marathon Dance was sponsored by the council. The group sent three couples into city competition where they placed fifth, seventh, and ninth.

KBA Tunes in BA's Students

KBA is the station on your radio dial for Bryan Adams music. This innovation during its first year at Bryan Adams, provided a relaxed atmosphere during hectic school days.

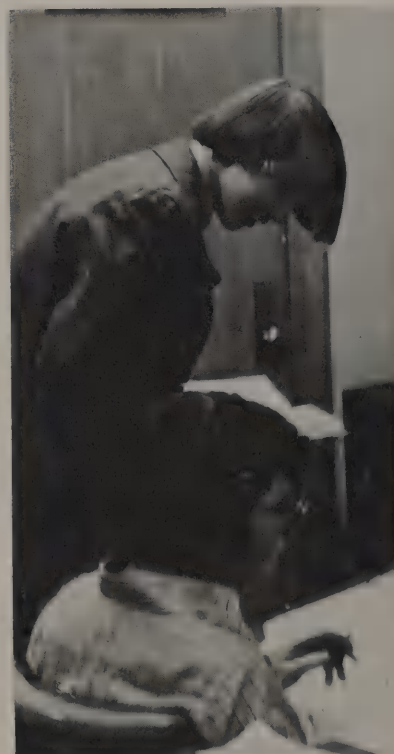

Mark Smith, the chief station manager, under the supervision of Mr. H. C. Brown, conducted a program-like radio station during the 1972-73 school year. Smith became the disc jockey around the school. Every Tuesday and Thursday he piped music and news items of importance to BA students into the lunchroom during the lunch periods. He taped the music ahead of time, and it was carried by the PA system to the lunchroom. Mr. Brown hoped that with interest and help of students and administration some day this small organized radio station would become a closed circuit station.

Symphony Works for Musical Experience

BA Symphony Orchestra students gained a new perspective of music as well as valuable orchestral experience. The orchestra served not as much in a performing capacity but rather in preparation for later musical experience in college.

Classes were held in an open style under the direction of Mrs. Marianne Gabbi. A few of the students also participated in the Eastfield Community Orchestra held on weeknights at Eastfield Junior College.

Eastfield and Richland Junior College were targets for field trips by the musicians, and in April they performed at Richland Junior College. Unison Solo and area-wide string concerts were hosted by BA on March 26.

Students went to Saturday concerts by the Dallas Symphony Orchestra where discussions about the music were held before the concerts and again afterwards over sodas. Several of the musicians also participated in the BA musical "Guys and Dolls" held in the spring.

Club Anticipates Varsity Action

Bryan Adams may have been the last Dallas high school to form a soccer team, but enthusiasm and fighting spirit compensated for lack of experience on the part of the newest Cougar team.

The Soccer Club came into existence by popular request early in October. The organizational meeting drew a record turnout. Demonstrations of basic soccer techniques by Dallas Tornado coach Ron Newman and professional soccer player John Best increased interest in the sport.

Although the soccer team was officially classified as a club this year, members practiced long hours and competed against established Dallas area teams. Through their efforts, members hoped that soccer would be recognized as a varsity sport at BA in future years.

Synchronized Swimmers Begin New Tradition

As the 1972-73 school year began, sixty girls and ten boys made the decision to synchr' swim. This year the Bryan Adams Synchronized Swimming Team continued its image as the original and the best team in Dallas with an expanded enrollment and lively new routines. Many different types of programs became possible with the addition of boys to the team for the first time. Scott Feemster served as the Official Male Coordinator, while Liz Bosler headed the entire synchronized swimming team.

The swimmers met two nights a week at the White Rock Pool. After completing a series of warm-up exercises, the team met in groups to learn new strokes, stunts, and routines.

Individual efforts became coordinated teamwork as the year passed. The Synchronized Swimmers participated in stunt competition and presented a show in the Spring.

Cougar Band Blasts Into Success

Not to be left out of Bryan Adam's new trend of change, the Cougar Band marched into the 1972-73 season. Among their many changes, the band acquired a new band leader, Mr. Pittman, and two new drum majors, Don Willis and Pat Norris. Sixty new members brought the total to 160 musicians blaring out their famous music. Adding to their familiar tunes, the band learned a number of new arrangements done especially for them.

After hours of practice during the summer and morning formations on the football field, the band made Bryan Adams proud with their success on their first trip to San Angelo. In addition to halftime performances, assemblies, and concerts for other schools, they made several trips. They won the title of "The Best Show-Band in Texas" and $1,000 at a contest at the State Fair of Texas.

Majorettes Twirl Through Season

Twirling and marching were only a few of the abilities of the Bryan Adams' Majorettes and the Cougarette. Patty Juno was feature twirler, and head majorette Quay O'hara led majorettes Susan Davis, Ludene Hoffman and Debbie Wagner. Mr. David Pittman served as their sponsor.

During the summer of 1972 the majorettes attended twirling camp at Kilgore Junior College, and the Cougarette attended a camp at Denton. Many of their intricate routines were coordinated at these camps.

Summer camp alone, however, wasn't the only thing that made the twirlers outstanding. Every morning the majorettes marched out onto the football field to practice with the band. They appeared with the band during all their performances. During the spring the majorettes participated in a twirling contest sponsored by the National Baton Twirlers Association.

BA Belles Show Off Petticoats and Pride

Precision, bright smiles, and the swish of petticoats marked each performance of the Bryan Adams Belles this year. Led by Captain Linda Dysart, Co-Captain Diane Martin, and Lieutenant Sharlotte Johnston, the Belles added color, spirit, and glamour to Cougar halftimes and pep assemblies.

Throughout the year, the 72 girls who comprised the BA Belles spent many hours in practice and made tremendous sacrifices to live up to their image as "The Pride of White Rock." As always, the annual Green and White Game brought the Belles' year to a close. The girls marched in the familiar V-formation to the tune of "March Grandioso" and concluded their performance with the original BA Kick. For some Belles, this was a farewell performance. For others, the tradition was only beginning.

Cheerleaders Give All They've Got

Pom-poms, plus megaphones, plus the Cougar all add up the '72-73 cheerleaders of Bryan Adams who promoted enough spirit for an army of Cougars. This enthusiasm carried over even to the opponents.

Enthusiasm was generated at the very first game, and it rose to a fever pitch. The boundless energy displayed in pep assemblies and on the playing fields, along with the cheerleader's yells, gave Bryan Adams a strong desire to win. In defeat or victory, the cheerleaders saw to it that the student body was never lacking in school spirit.

With the able assistance of their sponsor, Mrs. Fortner, the creativity and leadership of the cheerleaders provided never a dull moment.

Enthusiasm Characterizes Spirits

Along with the change of seasons came a tremendous change for the Bryan Adams Spirits. A new asset of Spirits was an increase in the membership and participation of Juniors. The club offered innovations for the Junior girls. The regular uniform was not worn by the Juniors. Instead a pantsuit, with white pants, green belt, white shirt, and green blazer was worn. Other changes for the Juniors included forming victory lines before the games and sitting together within the Spirits. Led by President Bonnie MacPhee, sophomore and junior girls aroused quite a ruckus at football games and pep assemblies. Sore throats and hoarse voices were nothing out of the ordinary for the Spirits, but it was worth it as they led the mighty Cougars onto numerous victories.

Cothurnus Opens Doors to Talent

To advance the interests in drama was the main goal of the Cothurnus Club at Bryan Adams during the year of 1973. The club gave the dramatically inclined students, as well as others, the opportunity to set their talents free in full display on the stage.

During the year, club meetings were usually held to organize the extra curricular activities which the Cothurnus Club engaged in, such as Cothurnus Playhouse. The plays produced for Cothurnus Playhouse this year were Big Rock at Candy's Mountain, under the guidance of Mrs. Grayce Clay, and Frankenstein, under the guidance of Mr. Kirby Matlack.

After Cothurnus Playhouse the Cothurnus Club broke into committees which studied various special dramatic interests of the club members. There was also a Thespian Society, an honorary dramatic society of outstanding participants.

NFL Builds Confidence, Courage

Halls outside Room 247 were often the setting for some of the most dramatic happenings around Bryan Adams. NFL members practiced daily for their various presentations. National Forensic League activities included duet acting, debate, extemporaneous speaking, original oratory, and poetry, prose, and dramatic interpretation.

Besides participating in the NFL Talent Show, members entered many tournaments throughout Texas and Arkansas. BA held its annual tournament on February 3 and 4. Members from BA won various trophies and honors, rating in the top at every tournament.

Money for the trips to other schools was earned from the NFL Talent Show and the BA Tournament. The president for this year was Barbara Kirby, and Angelos Ramos served as vice-president.

BA Students Entertain Youths

Children's Theater was not just "Kiddie stuff." It required long hours of rehearsal and preparation as well as an interest in children. When the time came for a show, the members enjoyed performing and also seeing the happy faces of the elementary school children.

Children's Theater, under the guidance of Mrs. Ann Nieto, performed four plays this year. The plays were performed on tour at the Dallas area elementary schools. The plays performed this year were "Jose the Candlemaker," "The Crying Prince," "The Golden Goose," and "Puppet Prince."

"The Littlest Angel" was performed during a pay assembly at BA to cover the expenses of costumes and sets. Over the past three years Children's Theater performed for more than 15,000 children. This unique organization was the only one of its kind in Texas.

Ecologists Wage War on Pollution

Bryan Adams added another new club to its roster this year — the Ecology Club. Composed of concerned students, the club set out to fight one of the school's toughest enemies — pollution. With Mr. Kasten as their commander, the group began their campaign by rounding up all the trash cans from the lounges and painting them. They labeled the cans for the disposal of glass bottles to be recycled. Teachers were also informed that they could help save paper and trees if they would allow students to write Pop Tests on the back of old ones.

Efforts to promote a better environment extended beyond the school walls to include even White Rock Lake as the club sponsored a clean-up on November 11. After the work there was a bonfire and entertainment by a rock group.

BA Students Organize 'Experimental Group'

Although not a favorite subject of many BA students, science and an interest in scientific careers drew members of the Bryan Adams Science Club together for an active year.

Throughout the school year, club members had the opportunity to hear guest speakers from scientific fields and to travel to various places of interest around Dallas. Funds for club activities were raised through such projects as the sale of Cougar note paper and the traditional Teachers' Halloween Insurance Project.

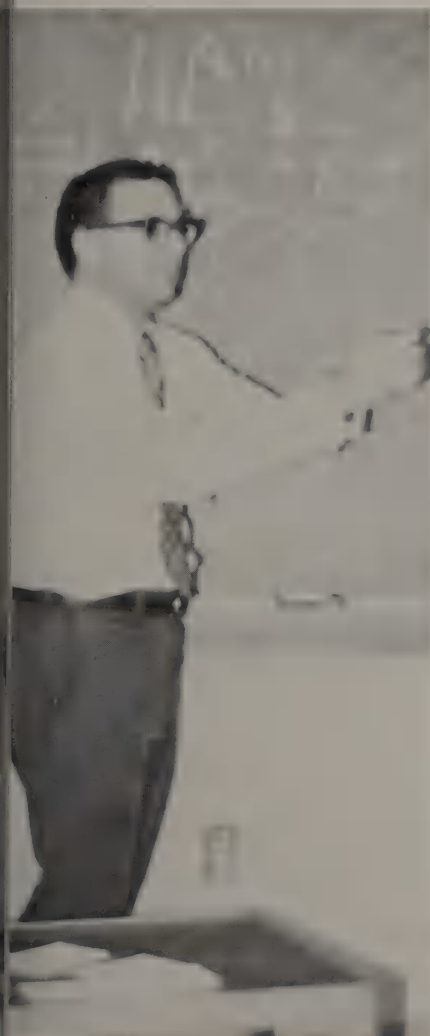

The year culminated in March with the annual Bryan Adams Science Symposium. Students from more than 100 school districts attended the symposium, which featured approximately thirty speakers from colleges across the country. This year's honored guest at the Science Symposium was Nobel Prize winner Polykarp Cusch.

Los Vencedores Radiate Friendship

"Los Vencedores es más que Español — Los Vencedores is more than Spanish." This is how the Spanish Club's first bulletin board read. Throughout the year, members, under the leadership of Margarita Ramos, worked to prove the truth of this slogan. Some members began the year by going to the Batan Center in West Dallas to befriend needy children there. Service projects included a Christmas Party for children at the Benito Juarez Elementary School and candy sales to earn money for donations to Pesos for Braces and other worthy causes. Money earned also sent members to Mexico for summer study.

Piñatas and sack lunches crowded Audubon Park for the club picnic on November 4. In March, several members went to the Pan American Student Forum convention in San Antonio. The annual banquet held at El Fenix ended the year as old officers and members were bid farewell.

Latin Club Renews Roman Customs

Many people think that Latin is a dead language, but members of the Latin Club disagreed as they proved that they were very much alive during the 1972-73 school year.

The year began with a get-acquainted picnic in September, and Latin students continued to eat their way through the year in a series of Roman feasts. Members held an initiation party in November and celebrated Christmas with a progressive dinner.

In March, members attended the state Latin convention in Ft. Worth. There they competed against other Latin students in reading comprehension, grammar, vocabulary, mythology, and other areas.

The year-end banquet proved to be the highlight of the year. Members wore togas and sandals and ate a full course Roman dinner. The sale of sophomore members and first year students as slaves enlivened the gathering.

Les Elites Combine French, Friendship, Fun

Some students at BA had the ability to speak French which made them "Les Elites."

Throughout the year, the French club under the leadership of Susan Yoachum, worked to become a superior group. The year's first activity was a picnic at Samuell East Park in October. A trip to Theatre Three to see a French comedy by Moliere proved to be very entertaining to the club members.

A progressive dinner, a tasting party, an ice skating expedition and a masquerade party kept the French Club busy with plans, programs, and outings.

In May an installation banquet for the new officers ended the year.

Interest Expands in German Culture

Instilling an understanding of German culture, people, and a feeling of "Gemutlichkeit," which means "good will," was the aim of the German Club at Bryan Adams. The German Club did just that. The many activities throughout the year included a Novemberfest at the University of Texas at Arlington, which was competition for German students from various high schools in Dallas and Arlington. Activities included Volkswagen races with directions in German. Prizes were awarded for winning Volkswagens. Bicycle races, singing, art drawings, and German music were some of the areas of competition.

Other activities throughout the year included a "Tags" convention held in March, where students assembled an "Oompah" band and presented a skit. Members also had a German tasting party and picnic at the beginning of the year.

BA Chess Club Makes Wise Moves

1972 was the first time in over 100 years that the United States won the World Championship in chess. This momentous event stirred up rivalry among the members of the Bryan Adams chess club in this thought-provoking game.

Members of the club were vying for a place on the tournament team which played other chess club teams. Plans were made for the Bryan Adams club to sponsor a city-wide high school tournament, as they did last year.

Understanding the game of chess and gaining general knowledge of how to play it were the main objectives of the chess club. Reason, deductive logic, and winning strategy were the basic requirements of a good chess player. Mr. Hunter, the Chess Club sponsor, said, "You do not have to be smart to play the game, but you have to be smart to win."

Scuba Club Explores Depths of Loos Pool

Loos pool may be nothing like the "undersea world" made famous by Jacques Cousteau, but a number of BA students discovered that the swimming pool was the perfect place to improve their scuba diving skills.

Meeting twice a month, the Bryan Adams Scuba Club provided the certified divers at BA with an opportunity to meet with other scuba divers and skin divers to exchange stories of undersea experiences and to practice diving techniques.

Actual diving expeditions to various locations allowed the members of the Scuba Club to explore the underwater world in a unique way that very few BA students will ever experience.

FHA: Homemaking Means Sharing

"Sharing" was the word for the Future Homemakers of America during the 72-73 school year as FHA members learned to help themselves by helping others.

For the second year meetings were held during homemaking class period so that more girls could take part in FHA activities. Interesting programs familiarized the girls with domestic skills and career opportunities for women.

Highlights of the year included a tasting party in October for which each girl prepared her favorite recipe, a mother and daughter dinner, a November food basket project for residents of an old folks home, and a Christmas party for the children at Buckner Children's Home.

In March, FHA members observed National FHA week. At that time the girls made a special point of doing nice things for teachers, parents, community members, and themselves.

Films Constructed by Project

Serving as an experiment for those interested in film making, the Film Project came into full swing with six very dedicated young men. Because of lack of qualification, for the first three years only boys have been in the group.

This group was formed for those who are not only interested in the filming, but also in the producing, directing, and editing as a hobby or as a career. Instead of combining the six boys' talents to make one film, this year they tried something new. Each boy constructed his own individual film, doing everything himself. In the spring, there was a film festival featuring the best of the six films.

Film Project for 1972-73 was made up of seniors Raylan Loggins, Russell Montgomery, Pat Caster, Barry Fine, Richard Camper, and junior Scott Hahn.

Council Renders Useful Service

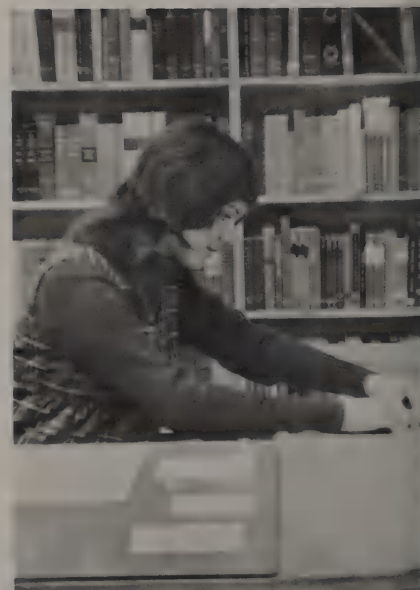

"Have you ever stopped to ask yourself why the book you wanted from the library was right where the number on the little file card told you it was?" Many students discovered that this was due to the time and effort of the Library Council. The council consisted of student librarians and other interested students. Their purpose was to improve the services of the school library as well as to provide a liaison between the library and the student body.

Meetings were held twice monthly after school, and student librarians spent one hour daily working in the library. Officers for the year were: President Janis Rheay; Vice-President Zoe Renner; Secretary-Treasurer Carrie Carr; Historian Carla White; and Parliamentarian Jodi Arnold. Their new sponsor was Mrs. Merlin.

Teamwork Bridges Cultural Gap

Three circles held by a pair of hands was a familiar symbol to BA students as the Human Relations Committee worked to unite the student body. Originally established to alleviate problems caused by desegregation, the committee expanded its goal to include promotion of understanding among all people. Composed of Anglo, Negro, Chicano, Oriental, and Indian students, the Human Relations Committee sought answers to the problems at BA. A problems and reactions sub-committee heard complaints and investigated their causes.

Committee sponsored activities began in October with an assembly to explain the goal of the Human Relations Committee and invite student involvement. Another assembly in February featured speakers and singers from various ethnic groups. Also the committee sponsored an outdoor concert later in the spring.

Writing Involves Imagination

Students let their minds soar in flights of fancy in Mrs. Maryellen Wilbanks' creative writing meetings. Imagination had no bounds when these students got together to describe in lilting prose or vibrant poetry the everyday objects that surround us.

Meetings provided an opportunity for members to be creative outside of an academic English class. They used a wide variety of literary styles including haiku rhyme, free verse, poetry, short story, and prose, to give meaning to their efforts.

Each year Bryan Adams' students took part in the state poetry contest. Forty-two of the creative writing group entered the contest this year. Students in this group also published an anthology annually. The latest publication was expanded from the original 52 pages to 300 pages, indicating the growing interest in the creative field. Editing the anthology were Sally Sharrock, Margaret Pettey, and Gail Thompson.

Art Contributes Creativity

With guest speakers, field trips, and an art sale, the Bryan Adams Art Club kept its members interested. Members participated more this year as a club with many chances to display art and take part in activities. Field trips to art museums and a sculpture class provided a knowledge of various art.

Artists visited meetings as guest speakers, and they displayed and told of their work. Students presented a Christmas tree to the school with decorations which they made. As a Christmas project they made toys to donate to the Crossroads Community Center. At the end of the year the group had an art sale at which the students sold their work. Things were sold either for the maker's profit or as a donation to the Art Club.

Health Careers Ventures Into World of Medicine

Interest in rendering service and in the medical field provided common concern for members of the Para Medical Club this year. The club sponsored seminars, field trips, speakers, and service projects for members interested in learning more about their medical career.

Service projects, such as participation in the Danny Thomas March of Dimes Walk helped needy people. Thanksgiving baskets were prepared by the club for deserving people in poor families. They also visited the Children's Medical Center during Christmas. Members were also responsible for decorating the bulletin board in the clinic.

FCA Encourages Christian Living

Providing an explicit understanding of individuals' problems, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes confronted members with the teachings and person of Jesus Christ. Through Bible studies, films, and speakers who shared their experiences, students brought themselves into a closer relationship with Jesus Christ.

Bible studies were held at members' houses, and different people led them each week. Films shown to the group varied from a personal testimony at a football banquet to a review of the Dallas Cowboys' football season. Guest speakers were usually athletes, pro or college, who talked of their experiences with Jesus Christ in their jobs, families and lives. Throughout the year, FCA also raised money to send many athletes to summer conferences.

Y.E.S. Strengthens Young People

To unite the ideas of today with Christian ideals as taught in the Bible remained the focal point of each YES meeting as BA youth encountered seventies for the third consecutive year.

In an effort to extend The Word to more students, YES members increased meetings to three mornings a week. At 7:30 a.m. the group of students sang and prayed together in the spirit of Christian fellowship. Intensive Bible study, which they called "blitzing," and personal testimony by YES members and special guest speakers led the interdenominational group to a greater realization and awareness of what Christianity really is.

As the year progressed, members came to understand their personal beliefs and to witness the value of a life lived for Christ.

Young Life Exhibits Emotions

Contrasts of emotions were apparent in each person who attended Young Life. Laughter and singing accompanied serious thought and discussion.

Tuesday night meetings of the club were led by people who allowed the students to talk with them and discuss relevant topics. Leading the group were Dan and Kathy Russ, Ralph and Mary LaMont, Mike Heins and Carolyn Denson, Journalism teacher at BA. Several former students also helped with the group.

Among the activities of Young Life was a weekend in November at Pine Cove. During the Christmas holidays the group participated in a skiing trip to Colorado.

Campus Life Depicts Balanced Life

Campus Life at Bryan Adams helped students learn about the "balanced life." Members discussed the physical, spiritual, mental, and social aspects of an individual. Subjects such as family relations, masks, social relations, and individual adjustments to society were also discussed.

Led by Mr. Don Kenyon, Campus Life sponsor, Tuesday night meetings were held at various students' homes. The gatherings began with games to relax members and reflect an air of informality.

On Halloween night members dressed in a variety of costumes for the meeting. Ghost stories were told to complete the evening's activities.

Although the meetings were informal, the wide variety of topics discussed brought students to a greater awareness of the effects of today's society on the spiritual life of the individual.

Pop and Rock Beats Typify Band Scores

Under the leadership of Mr. Isaac Matthews, the 25 member Stage Band put it all together this year. They were rewarded for their long hours of rehearsal with an invitation to the Howard Cosell luncheon in November. Following their success at the luncheon, they were invited to exhibit their skill during the halftimes of two Dallas Chaparral basketball games.

Appealing to both young and old audiences was the band's main goal. Their sound had to be popular enough for BA students, yet moderate enough for older audiences. Tuxedos added a formal touch and gave them a more professional appearance.

In January the Stage Band entered the Dallas City Stage Band Festival and travelled to New Orleans for regional competition. Stage Band members accompanied their fellow Cougar Band members to Washington, D. C., and marched in President Nixon's Inaugural Parade January 20.

TOP: "Ready, ready, ready, GO," says Mr. Matthews, band director.

Harmony Forms Key to Choir's Success

Concert Choir, like many other organizations at BA, had an innovative year. Uniforms for the girls in the choir this year changed from last year's short version to new floor-length gowns. Jazz became the new style adopted for the ensemble group.

To become a member of Concert Choir, interested students in chorus classes tried out for positions. Singers in the choir auditioned again for the 14 member Ensemble.

A get-acquainted party started the year on September 13. Shoppers at Northpark and Town East heard carols sung by the choir on December 7 and 12. They sang for several PTA meetings as well as the DISD wives' luncheon. Assemblies were held in the spring at Hill and Gaston Junior High to acquaint prospective members with the techniques of the Choir.

Society Dedicates Garden Memorial

Working always for the good of the students at Bryan Adams, the National Honor Society carried out many projects that have become traditional, and established what they hoped would become a new tradition for the school.

During the summer of '72, Honor Society members began the task of converting the tiny courtyard beside the library into a garden memorial to the late Mrs. Wilma Stone, a former biology teacher at BA.

Past projects continued by this year's Honor Society included the tutoring program and the annual College Night. Funds for these and other service activities were raised through a bake sale and a movie project.

The Country Dinner Playhouse production of "Mame" during the Christmas holidays and the year-end banquet provided National Honor Society members with an opportunity to do something for themselves as a change of pace.

Three Societies Honor Students

Bryan Adams had three chapters of honorary societies: Quill and Scroll, Thespians, and Mu Alpha Theta.

Quill and Scroll was comprised of outstanding journalists from the Cougar Crossroads and the el Conquistador staff who maintained high averages.

Cothurnus Club members performed various dramatic tasks to earn the ten Thespian points necessary to become a Thespian.

Maintaining a "B" average and an interest in mathematics were the main requirements for becoming a member of Mu Alpha Theta. Members participated in math tournaments at several schools.

Providing a person with the honor of being a member, these societies were inactive most of the time.

Key Club Helps Needy Causes

Key Club 72-73 worked as a whole team to complete service projects, social activities, and fund raising events. On their motto of "We Build," the Key Club built initiative, leadership, and responsibility in its members.

This year the Key Club members participated in Marathon Marches to raise money for worthy causes, such as the March of Dimes Campaign. They donated their time to usher at the newly remodeled Music Hall during the State Fair. Contributions made by the Key Club in these areas not only helped its members but also proved useful to the community.

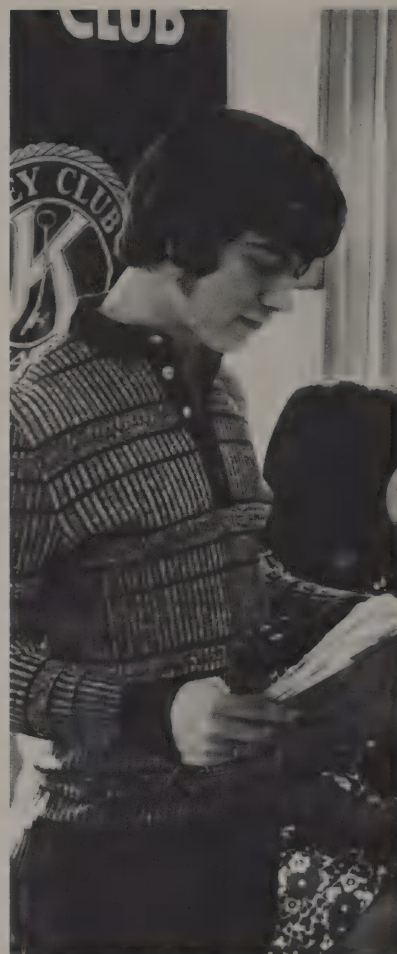

Officers who led the club members in these endeavors were President Wes Foster, Vice President Jim Willows, Secretary Chip Page and Treasurer John Corona. Mary Guy was the Senior director, and the Junior director was Kyle Love. The Key Club was sponsored by Mr. John McClure.

Friendly Seniors Lend Helping Hand

Senior girls scored a first this year with the formation of their own club. Primarily a service organization, the Senior Girls Club was formed by popular demand in the spring of 1972. During the summer months, the girls held a bake sale and a car wash.

During the football season, Senior girls worked to promote spirit by helping to decorate the halls and auditorium. Serving in cooperation with the Community Guidance Center, the girls also collected clothing periodically for needy families or families who had been victims of a fire or other emergency.

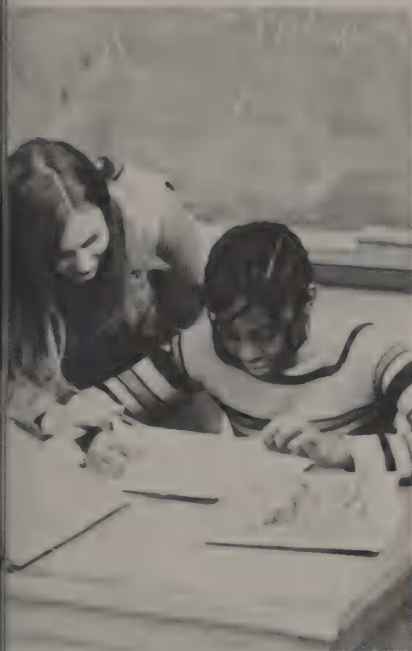

Proceeds from a Tupperware party contributed to the treasury. Forty dollars was contributed to the band for their trip to Washington, D. C.

Pub Staff Exposes Games Seniors Play

An open ear, an inquisitive eye, and a sense of nosiness prevailed throughout the spring semester as 75 Pub staff members spent the semester compiling humorous incidents for the 1973 Senior Pub.

In a relaxed atmosphere during the seventh period, ten humor committees worked to make embarrassing stories, cuts, photos, and art work fit the Pub's theme.

Suggestion boxes located around the school aided in the staff's effort to discover infamous incidents from the seniors' past lives. Lists containing the names of every senior were distributed to members of the humor committees to insure that everyone's name would appear in the Pub.

Laughter and joking were heard in the halls and classrooms when the Pub arrived in May and seniors discovered how much they did not know about each other.

Staff Communicates

Issues and Answers

"Expansion" is the word that best described the 1972-73 Cougar Crossroads. Early in the year, the Crossroads staff increased the size of the paper to twelve pages. Under the guidance of Editor Susan Yoachum and new sponsor Miss Carolyn Denson, the staff also increased their news coverage to include not only the happenings within the school itself, but also a wide variety of outside issues and interests as well. In an up-to-date news magazine style, the Cougar Crossroads covered topics ranging from The Occult to VD.

Honors and awards followed the Cougar Crossroads staff from San Antonio, to Denton to Austin, and back to Dallas. Their journalistic efforts won recognition for the Crossroads and for individual staff members in area competition.

Scribble Day Brings Beautiful Memories

Mass hysteria often characterized the el Conquistador staff as everything went wrong and work had to be redone the day of the deadline. But patience and cooperation were rewarded on Scribble Day. The annual arrived amid excited chatter as the book's unique cover was revealed and the secrets of its awards became known.

Preparations for the annual began in the spring of '72 with selection of new staff members. During the summer, senior staffers compiled the supplement to the el C '72. A trip to San Antonio for a workshop at Trinity University gave the staff new ideas for pictures and layouts, and a tour of Taylor Publishing Company showed the process involved in producing an annual.

Beginning with the first days of school, the staff recorded student activities in a nonstop effort to capture "reflections of a year gone by."

School Board Decisions Improve Quality Education

Visits to schools, selections of superintendents, and establishment of school policies were but a few of the many functions of the 1972-1973 Dallas Independent School Board.

The school board, headed by Superintendent Dr. Nolan Estes and President John P. Green, acquired two newly elected board members in '72. These members were Mrs. Nancy Judy and Mr. Farrell Ray. With the help of Dr. Estes, the school board carried out the required procedures and made and enforced new policies in the DISD. Among these policies were teacher salaries, lunchroom food prices, efficient use of school facilities, and school districting.

Mr. Richardson Leads Bryan Adams

Not a day was complete without the sound of early morning announcements. This was one of the many duties of our principal Mr. D. D. Richardson. His belief was that one could not be a good principal until becoming involved with the students and their activities.

Student-teacher relationships, parent-teacher problems, integration difficulties, and administration conferences were part of this man's tasks. He also supervised the air-conditioning and painting of the school building during the 1972-73 school year. Days remained filled and busy for our hard working principal, who was assisted by Mrs. Doris Tuffly and Mrs. Frances Swift.

Assistant Principals Make the Day

Mr. Madison was in charge of the senior boys, the parking lot, the book-room, and the Student Guidance Center. Mr. Freeman controlled the junior boys and attended athletic events. He kept a close watch on the halls and the lunchroom.

Miss Carmichael disciplined the girls at BA, was responsible for enrollment and attendance, and held parent-teacher-student conferences when necessary. Mr. Forgey "kept the sophomore boys in line." He was responsible for the sound in the auditorium, the trophy case, and the newly organized Soccer Club.

Mr. Mitchell assisted Mr. Richardson whenever he was needed and usually policed the lunchroom with Mr. Freeman.

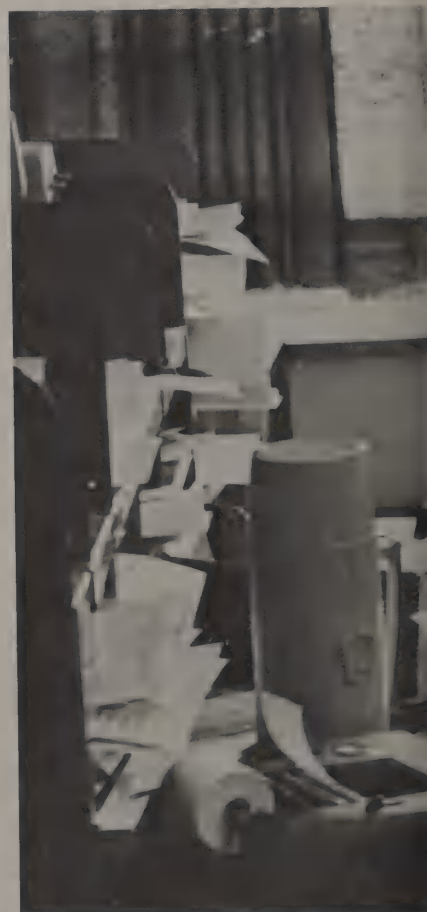

Counselors Aid Students Toward a Better Future

On August 21, in homeroom, students received their schedules. The counselors' office was filled with many dissatisfied students wanting changes in their schedules. Counselors assisted students with their schedules and helped individual students with their personal problems.

Mrs. Lewis worked with students last names beginning with A-C, while Mrs. London handled D-G. Mrs. Brown counseled with H-K, Mrs. Winder took L-O, whereas students P-S were counseled by Mrs. Chamblee. Mrs. Enlow took charge of T-Z.

Mass confusion occurred in the counselors' office for the first few weeks of school. Everything was under control by the end of the third week.

Mathematics Contributes to Present and Future

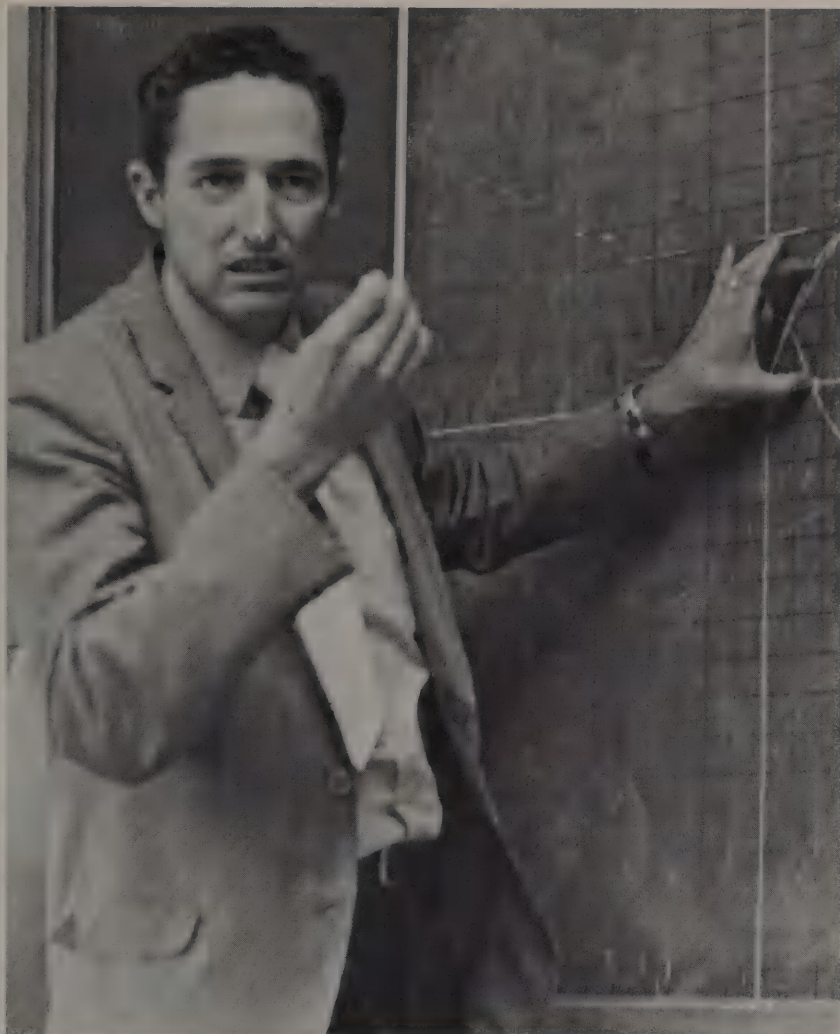

Angles, degree measures, and quadratic equations all made up some of the contents of the different mathematics courses offered at Bryan Adams in 1972-73. These courses included Geometry, Algebra, Analysis, and Business Math.

Postulates, theorems and definitions continued to baffle students of Geometry while slide rules and logarithms confused those of Algebra 3-4.

Math Club and Math Symposium were offered to those students who were more intrigued by math and interested in making better grades.

For all the "computer minded" students at Bryan Adams, a computer programming class was held several days a week. The students involved in this class received a head start in the computer field.

Science Opens a Door to Novel Experiences

Most sophomores took biology, most juniors took chemistry, and physics was left to the "brilliant people." These courses offered at Bryan Adams taught students different theories of applied sciences. Students acquired a knowledge ranging from the dissection of a worm to $E=MC^2$.

Films and labs often helped students obtain a better understanding of an unusual happening that was taking place before their very eyes.

During the second semester, students interested in science and good grades took part in the Annual Science Fair. The Science Fair allowed students to show off their talents.

Advanced science courses were offered for interested students. Advanced Biology and Chemistry afforded new experiences and knowledge for participants.

Foreign Languages Provide Challenge

French, German, Spanish, and Latin were the foreign languages offered at Bryan Adams in 1972-73. Throughout the year, many students at BA struggled with grammar rules and verb conjugations. These often presented problems for the scholars of foreign languages.

To gain a deeper understanding of the time from which Latin came, the students studied the history and customs of the ancient Romans. Spaniards, Germans, and Frenchmen learned the modern history of their respective countries in order to relate language to the people.

In each course, films and other information were readily available.

English Illustrates the Means and Ways of Today

"English is the key to success. If you cannot speak and write properly, you will be a failure." Students hearing this many times often doubted the truth of such a statement. Nevertheless, English flourished, and students received instruction. Different areas of English, American, and Greek literature and cultures taught students of times past.

Nouns, verbs, prepositions, and the like were not to be forgotten. Grammar played a part in each level of English at Bryan Adams. The study of grammar showed the "rights and wrongs" of speaking the English language.

Students wishing to express themselves in a creative manner attended Mrs. Wilbanks' Creative Writing class during seventh period.

Students Find Relevance Between Past and Today

"Man learns by his own mistakes." Thus, the study of History came into being. Studies of the past revealed to man all his mistakes. If knowledgeable of them, man would not repeat his mistakes; therefore, history is important today.

Many courses in various types of history were offered at Bryan Adams this year. World History, American History, European History, English History, and others taught students of different cultures and patterns of life.

American Government, better known as Civics, explained to students different types of government and compared them to that of the United States. Problems of Democracy gave students a chance to govern themselves within the school.

Home Ec. and Industrial Arts Teach Future Needs

Home Economics and Industrial Arts contributed to the experiences of Bryan Adams students.

Home Economics revealed the woman's place in the home. Bryan Adams girls learned to cook, sew, and take care of their future families. Home Economics proved to be helpful throughout the year.

Drafting, metal, plastic, and wood shops taught students to be creative with their own ideas. It was first necessary for students to figure the cost of materials, and make a work plan before construction began.

Home Economics and Industrial Arts taught students things they will need for the future.

Office Education Open Doors for the Future

Business preparation at Bryan Adams offered such courses as Typing, Shorthand, Business Math, and Bookkeeping. These courses prepared students for prospective secretarial jobs, and hopeful business executive positions.

Industrial Cooperative Training showed students the need for skill in labor.

Vocational Office Education taught students basic office procedures. Health Occupational Cooperative Training helped students with medical interests. Home Economic Cooperative Training aided students who were concerned in that field of study. The Agricultural Cooperative Program gave students training in future careers in farming and nursery management.

Journalism Express Ideas in Writing

First year journalism classes learned basic skills in the journalistic field. From these first year journalism students the staff for next year will be chosen.

In October, the staff and first year classes attended the Southwest Journalism Forum at SMU. In December they traveled to Denton for the Texas High School Press Association. In March they attended the Interscholastic League Press Conference in Austin. Mark Guy, President of the convention, presided over the entire delegation.

The Cougar Crossroads won the certificate of commendation from the Interscholastic League Press Conference for Political Coverage. Many other awards were won both by the publication and by individual staff members throughout the entire year as the staff published a newsmagazine every two weeks. Miss Carolyn Denson in her first year to teach sponsored the paper.

Auxiliary Departments Keep School in Order

With the assistance of the clinic, library, lunchroom, and IBM room Bryan Adams' school days ran smoothly.

The clinic staff cared for the sick students and also maintained health records.

Miss Hattie Fowler helped students from early morning to late afternoon in the library.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Ruth Swor, the lunchroom provided the noon meal for BA students.

Mrs. Barbara Robison was kept busy with attendance keeping and making program cards. When report card week came, it was a great deal of work to have them ready, but she handled it well.

TOP: Suzy Davis signs the card to check out a book.

MIDDLE: Mrs. Lynch checks Sharon Schreiber's blood pressure.

Exercise Alternates Between Leisure Time

On alternating days BA students attended Physical Education classes and Study Hall.

In P.E. classes, students began with exercises, then they participated in such sports as softball, football, basketball, volleyball, and soccer. The students were divided into teams, and a spirit of competition prevailed.

Study hall alternated with P.E. It gave students time to cram for an upcoming test or catch up on homework. Study halls also provided time to catch up on sleep missed the night before.

Physical education and study hall brought a change in routine for Bryan Adams students.

Drama, Speech Students See New Aspect of Life

In Drama classes at Bryan Adams, the students learned the many aspects of the theatre. First year students learned the basics of drama. Advanced drama students gained more knowledge and experience. Many of the students were taught more about the roles of actors and actresses as some learned about technical parts of the theatre.

Speech courses at BA provided the opportunity for students to improve their speaking abilities. Speech also taught the students how to interpret literature and learn to communicate better with the private and business world.

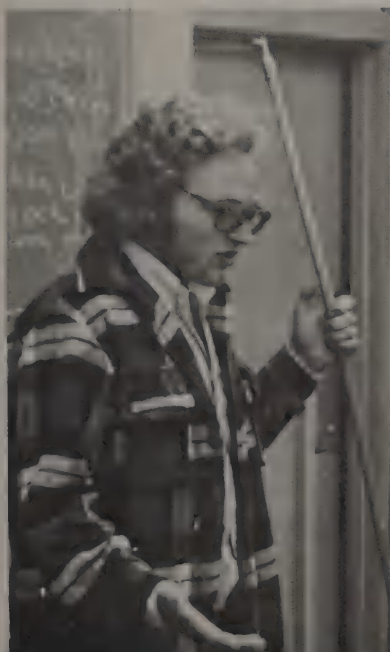

Drama and Speech gave BA students knowledge for the present and the future.

Music and Art Compose BA's Culture Studies

More "cultured" students of the Music and Art departments learned new ways of improving and refining their talents.

Many students of the Art department shared their talents with the entire student body by exhibiting their creations in the trophy cases.

Those of the Music department delighted the human ear with the sounds of the tuba, violin, or other musical instruments. The Bryan Adams Music Department ranged from intermediate band, to Orchestra, to the Marching Cougar Band.

The Chorus Classes received recognition, too, as the Concert Choir performed their annual spring musical.

Psychology, Sociology, Social Science Explored

Social Science, Psychology, and Sociology courses were offered to students at Bryan Adams. The courses, relatively new at BA, taught students about their fellow man and also about themselves.

Some of these subjects also allowed the students to have "free" time. With this time, they were able to study any subject which appealed to them. This taught students discipline by allowing them to use their time as they thought best. Book reports were necessary for Sociology and Psychology.

Frequent guest speakers brought a break from class routine. Field trips, such as the one to Denton State Schools, provided extra enrichment for those who participated.

1973 Class Officers Have Successful Year

Senior Class 1973 shared many memories during their last year at BA. As the years of learning and working together came to an end, seniors looked forward to many activities, including the Senior Show, the Senior Prom, the All Night Party, and Graduation.

The Senior Show was an innovation this year entitled "Senior Fantasy." For the first time, the show was written by members of the senior class. Tryouts and rehearsals began early to make the show a big success.

The class of '73 will long remember their years spent at Bryan Adams along with the faculty and students of BA. President Doug Depoma, Vice President Mike Wallis, Secretary Pam Haynie, and Treasurer Paula Dixon led the Senior Class throughout the year. The Senior Class sponsors were Miss Lou Withrow, Mr. Jerry Clay, and Miss Sarah Scott.

Seniors Recall Familiarities

Awards

Dedication, service, and diligence caused a few students to be noticed for their outstanding contributions to Bryan Adams.

These individuals were involved in many different activities and organizations in addition to maintaining excellent grade averages. They distinguished themselves by volunteering their time, skills, intelligence, and talents to better their school.

Often these people receive little more for their efforts than a sense of personal satisfaction. However, the el Conquistador staff recognizes them with the presentation of the esteemed "Gold Cougar Awards" and the "el C Salutes."

Charles Jordan

Seldom did the spotlight fall on Charles Jordan, though he was a person who "gave his all" to his school and to his community. Active in many phases of school life, Charles contributed much to every activity in which he participated.

Student Council claimed many hours of Charles' time. He designed and built the bookstore, a project which benefitted all BA students. The calendar, posting much vital information, was built with his skillful hands.

Involvement in NFL created opportunities for Charles to use his speech abilities. He took part in several speech tournaments during his years at BA. These accomplishments were revealed to the student body as Charles was a principal link in the Black American History Week Assembly.

Charles was also a member of the Superintendent's Student Advisory Committee, The Emergency Schools Program, and the Upward Bound Program at SMU. In all his activities, he served to his fullest capacity. The el Conquistador is proud to present Charles Jordan with the Gold Cougar Award.

Susan Yoachum

Enthusiasm for life and a willingness to give separated Susan Yoachum from the average. Although active in numerous organizations, Susan also maintained an "A" average throughout her years at BA. This scholastic excellence was rewarded by her nomination to the National Honor Society.

Drill team practice and performances required many hours of Susan's time as she participated for two years in the Belles. She was a member of the French Club, acting as secretary in her junior year and as president as a senior.

Outstanding in the field of journalism, Susan served as Editor-in-Chief of the Cougar Crossroads newsmagazine. This job required much time, responsibility, and skill. She also served as Original Humor Editor of the Pub.

Susan was an active participant in the Human Relations Committee and in the University Interscholastic League Spelling Contest. Her good citizenship was recognized by her receipt of the Daughters of the American Revolution Award for 1973. To this deserving individual, the el Conquistador presents the Gold Cougar Award.

Neil Jones

Versatility keynoted the outstanding contributions of Neil Jones. Constantly working with various organizations and projects, he achieved excellence in every area.

Scholastic perfection trademarked Neil, as he kept a straight "A" average during his years at BA. He was nominated to the National Honor Society during his junior year and was elected president of the organization. This office required numerous hours spent in organization, meetings, and activities.

Interested in science, Neil joined the Science Club to extend his knowledge and understanding of this subject. Chosen president, he donated many hours to planning activities for the club, and he had the responsibility of coordinating the Science Symposium held at BA in March.

Neil also participated in Mu Alpha Theta and the Math Club. He served as a Humor Committee member for the '73 Senior Pub. These organizations involved much of Neil's time and required his talents. Because of this dedication, the el Conquistador is proud to award the Gold Cougar to Neil Jones.

El C Salutes Worthy Students

Teresa Reames

Musical talent and interest in many other facets of school life marked Teresa Reames as an outstanding student. She was elected vice-president of the Health Careers Club and spent many hours coordinating the club's activities. She was a two-year member of the Spirits before becoming a Belle. Through these organizations, she displayed her school spirit and her zest for life.

Perhaps her most significant contribution was in the area of music. Teresa sang in the Concert Choir for two years, serving as president her senior year. Recognizing her ability, Mr. Erwin chose her for the Concert Choir Ensemble, a select group of singers for special performances.

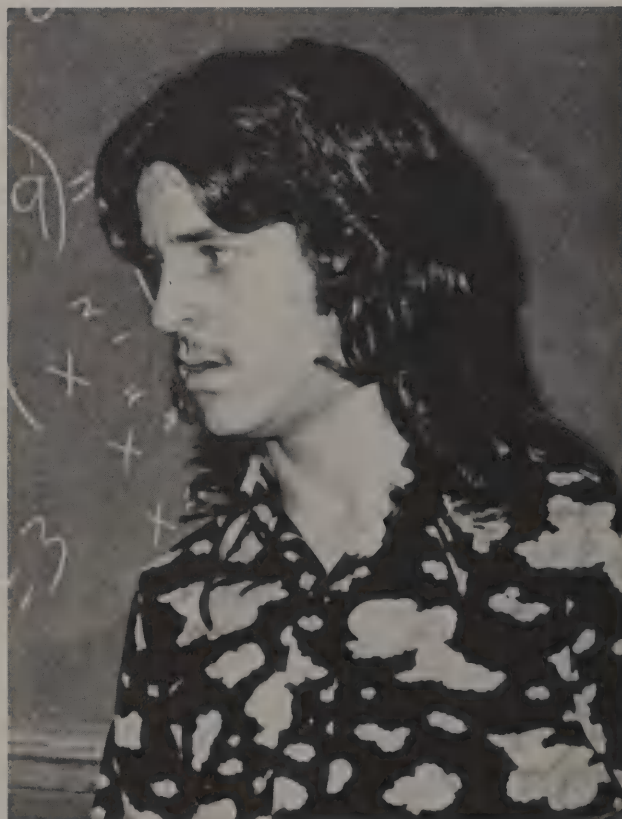

Teresa also participated in the musical for two years, contributing much to each production. Her excellent grades were rewarded when she became a two-year member of the National Honor Society. She gave her fullest capacity to each activity, thus earning for herself the respect of teachers and students alike. The el Conquistador is pleased to award such a deserving person as Teresa Reames with the "el C Salutes."

Devotion to his school and to humanity made Richard Lord much more than an ordinary student. As Student Council President, he caused many profitable innovations to take place at BA during the 1972-73 school year. Spending many hours of his time, Richard worked unceasingly to benefit the student body. The Cougar Book, the Student Council sponsored dance, the bookstore, and many other projects required hours of organization and work. They also entailed frequent conferences with the administration.

In an effort to increase understanding of cultural differences, Richard became one of the first members of the Human Relations Committee. Within this group, he was able to promote friendship among individuals of all races. As a member of Life Leadership, Richard attended a summer workshop and several other sessions. In these meetings, discussions with students from other schools provided new ideas which he adapted to BA. Richard was also an active member of Cothurnus. He devoted his very best to every organization in which he participated, and for this reason the el Conquistador is proud to salute Richard Lord.

Richard Lord

Asuka Nakahara

Constantly active, Asuka Nakahara participated in many varied activities. Elected cheerleader, he attended all the football games and many other sports functions, leading the students in chants, cheers, and general spirit. Asuka represented his homeroom in the Student Council and was a member of the Math Club. He served on the Human Relations Committee and was the only Oriental in the multi-ethnic group.

As vice-president of the Science Club, Asuka helped coordinate the functions of this organization. He devoted many hours in preparation for the Science Symposium held at BA in March. Excelling in his academic subjects, Asuka became a member of the National Honor Society and was chosen treasurer by the other members. In this office, he dedicated much of his time to numerous projects. Also involved in journalism, Asuka contributed several articles to the school newspaper. He served as Assistant Humor Editor of the Senior Pub, copyreading and editing cuts out of the humor magazine. The el Conquistador salutes Asuka Nakahara because he is an outstanding student in every way.

Involvement characterized Gail Farrell, for she was actively involved in many activities at BA. She was a member of the National Honor Society and served as a director of the Student Council. Exercising her musical talent, Gail sang in the Concert Choir for two years. She participated in the musical, utilizing both her singing talent and her dramatic ability.

As chairman of Human Relations Committee, Gail did much to promote understanding between members of different races at BA. Early in the year, she coordinated the group's efforts to perform an assembly for the student body. Many hours of practice went into the skits, and they helped students to deal realistically with the culture contrasts between the various ethnic groups. On the Cougar Crossroads staff Gail managed the business affairs of the newsmagazine. She became a member of Quill and Scroll, the honor society for journalism students.

Gail donated her time to work on the Pub humor magazine. She also served on the Superintendent's School Advisory Committee. In each of these organizations, she was outstanding as a very involved individual. The el Conquistador is proud to salute Gail Farrell.

Gail Farrell

Ralph Canada

Ability to perform well in a wide variety of activities was the key to Ralph Canada's contributions to BA. His scholastic excellence was acknowledged by his appointment to the National Honor Society. Ralph served as a representative for his homeroom on the Student Council. Interested in math, he was an active member of the Mu Alpha Theta math club.

Ralph's leadership abilities were exhibited as he acted as Latin Club "Consul," or President. In this capacity, he channeled the club's activities into meaningful and interesting projects. As a member of the Senior Show Executive Script Committee, Ralph utilized his creative ability. With his help, the script for the March production was conceived and written. Many hours of his time were devoted to this project.

Agility and athletic stamina combined in Ralph and made him a natural for tennis. For three years he played the sport at BA, winning many matches in competition with other schools. All in all, Ralph dedicated his whole self to his school. His outstanding qualities of leadership and scholarship made him an excellent student. For these reasons, the el Conquistador is pleased to salute Ralph Canada.

Somehow finding the time to spread herself among many different organizations of BA, Liz Stewart devoted herself totally to each activity. As a music student, Liz showed her talents by singing in the Concert Choir. She was also chosen to be a member of the choir's Ensemble.

Liz continued to contribute to her school in the areas of speech and drama. A member of the NFL, she functioned as tournament coordinator for the competitions of this group. In this capacity, she was responsible for arranging the details of pending tournaments. Through her dedicated work in this area, she was chosen as a member of the NFL Board. Liz took part in nearly every dramatic production at BA as a member of the Cothurnus Club. She carried lead roles in several of these plays, thus earning a position in the Thespians.

Many other activities claimed hours of Liz's time. She was a member of the Human Relations Committee and the Life Leadership Labs, displaying her abilities for leadership in both these organizations. This quality was also exhibited as she was Secretary of the Student Council. Throughout her years at BA, Liz consistently showed her devotion with long hours of work. For this reason, the el Conquistador salutes Liz Stewart.

Liz Stewart

Salutes Reward Dedication

Sharon Morgan

Spirit and enthusiasm abounded in the character and the life of Sharon Morgan. During her junior year at Bryan Adams she led yells, cheers, and chants as a cheerleader. At the end of the year she was re-elected by the student body. So, for two years Sharon was the first black cheerleader. This distinction brought her fame as she instituted a "soul cheer."

Student Council claimed part of Sharon's time as she represented her homeroom in the morning meetings. In this organization she actively participated in the discussions, voting, and projects of the council. Sharon also served on the Human Relations Committee. In this group, she strived to bridge cultural gaps between the various races. She contributed to the Black American History Week Assembly by dancing in the production. Sharon added spirit and life to every activity in which she was involved, and her dedication was evident. For these reasons, the el Conquistador salutes Sharon Morgan.

Possessing all of the characteristics associated with a superior student, Carol Almgren added to Bryan Adams' reputation in several ways. As a member of the Spirits, Carol's presence and her enthusiasm helped spur the football team to victory. She participated in all the activities of the Spanish Club for three years. During this time, she attended Spanish conventions and competed for top honors in various events.

Carol's report card represents her dedication to learning. She has been on the honor roll all of her three years at BA. Accepted into the National Honor Society during her junior year, Carol contributed her time to the projects sponsored by this organization. As a member of the Senior Pub staff, Carol donated her time to typing humor tips for the publication. Carol served on several committees for the Senior Show and helped out wherever she was needed.

As student representative on the DISD textbook selection committee, Carol helped choose English books for fourth, fifth, and sixth grade children. The el Conquistador is proud to recognize the contributions of Carol Almgren by presenting her an "el C Salutes."

Carol Almgren

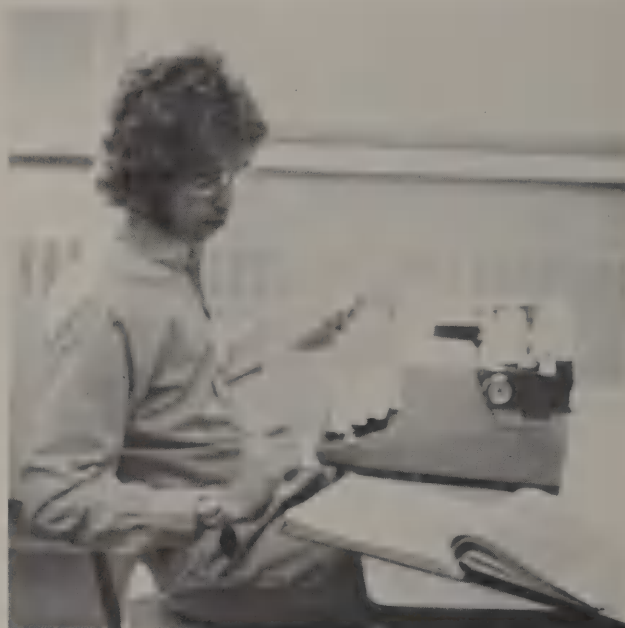

Who's Who At Bryan Adams

Many students achieved excellence in one specific department of education. These individuals devoted most of their time to one area, perfecting their talents and skills. A new award was instituted this year to recognize these students' work. The el C honors these students with the Who's Who Award.

Staff Appreciates Photographers' Work

Many long hours were devoted to the taking, developing, and printing of pictures for the annual. Photographers received little thanks or credit for the many hours spent working with pictures. We, the el Conquistador staff, would like to take this opportunity to thank all our photographers for their skills, their time, and their patience.

Chris Reeves headed the staff of photographers, spending many hours processing film. He printed an average of 100 pictures per week, covering the Band's trip to Washington and many less exciting assignments.

Other photographers who helped the annual tremendously were James Salter and John Visser. Laine Pochmann contributed the cover picture and several others. Dan Hearne, Debbie Faughn, Dusty Sexton, and Duane Rimmer also donated their time to picture taking. A special thanks is extended to Bill MacManus, the newspaper photographer, who helped us through many rough spots.

Hearts were saddened by the deaths of Presidents Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson, but Americans everywhere rejoiced in the death of the Vietnam War.

*Our year of searching
Has concluded.
In a quiet moment
We reflect
On experiences past
And we anticipate
The joys of tomorrow.*
